UNION SQUARE

Beneath historic Union Square in downtown San Francisco, is a huge underground parking garage with a space for 1700 cars—on four levels with entrances and exits on the four streets that bound Union Square. The four floors are connected by slightly sloping ramps, and are floodlighted and efficiently ventilated.

A spacious lobby with seats and gallery is a daily rendezvous for out of town visitors who flock to the gallery to view the spectacle of a thousand cars an hour passing in and out.
